

Zoom Listening Session – Pubic Comment for Title II Spending Priorities

The SACJJD is holding a listening session to hear directly from the public, and especially youth, about its current planning work. The SACJJD wants your help as it prepares to develop its three-year state plan strategies for delinquency prevention and juvenile justice improvement. This plan is a roadmap for policies that will direct spending under a federal grant program called Title II. To get there we must understand what communities across California believe are the most important and effective interventions to help our at-risk young people succeed.

Please come and share with the Committee. Title II funds can be used for efforts such as:

- Community youth services such as mentoring, gender specific services, and after school programs for at-risk youth.
- Reducing racial and ethnic disparities
- Diversion
- Employment
- Mentoring
- Mental Health Treatment
- Reentry Services
